

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In precision equipment such as a semiconductor exposure apparatus, an inertial load is driven by using an actuator, and an actuator fixed to a structure such 5 as a vibration isolation base, an apparatus mounted on the base, and a control force is applied to the structure by using a drive reaction force generated upon driving of the inertial load, thereby stably and quickly suppressing produced vibrations.